

Tami Hulcher
“The Queen of Health”®

Nationally recognized as “The Queen of Health®”, Tami is a mother of three children (ages 18, 20, 21); she is a health educator, president and CEO of Ola Loa, Inc., a writer and a soon-to-be author. Her passions are children’s nutrition, cancer awareness, and the environment.

Ms. Hulcher has been dubbed the ‘Erin Brokovich of Nutrition’ by the press and media, because of her aggressive stance on our toxic food environment. Ms. Hulcher is a “Mom on a Mission” and has become the voice of thousands of concerned parents and health advocates.

Tami’s popular lecture series has been featured around the U.S. including medical facilities, schools, PTAs, athletic clubs, church and women’s groups. She has also been a featured speaker for Boeing, American Heart Association, University of Southern CA, Pepperdine, The Epilepsy Foundation, The Ritz-Carlton Maui, Whole Children/Whole Planet Expo, Pasadena’s Cancer Awareness program, and the prestigious Oaks at Ojai Resort, to name a few.

Ms. Hulcher has also served on many wellness panels featuring topics such as cancer, obesity, teen health, cardiovascular disease, and school nutrition.

As part of the City of Santa Clarita’s 2005 “Healthy Santa Clarita” program, Tami served as the nutrition lecturer along with the mayor and fitness experts providing education to children in elementary schools and in senior care facilities.

Tami has appeared on TV and radio; having co-hosted a show with topics ranging from cancer, to obesity, to heart disease, to children’s health, to Autism. She is a recurring guest co-host on KHTS AM 1220 with nationwide listeners.

A certified wellness and nutrition consultant, Tami currently works with health care professionals providing health and nutritional resources. Through this program, she is working with a large Autistic patient base.

Ms. Hulcher, a former state beauty queen also oversees and manages a thriving nationwide health and wellness organization.
